

Fleet Policy Review

Is your fleet policy out of date?

Despite the fact your fleet policy is a vitally important document, quite often it is overlooked and remains stuck in the past.

Your fleet policy should always reflect:

- The most recent developments in legislation
- Your own Health and Safety policy
- Your specific approach to risk management

For your fleet policy to be effective it must be:

- Communicated clearly to all employees
- Fully enforced in all its elements

An all encompassing policy must cover all aspects of driving and safety including:

- Vehicle selection and fitness for purpose
- Vehicle usage and journey management
- Use of Mobile phones and other 'in-vehicle' technology
- Vehicle safety and maintenance
- Alcohol and drugs
- Vehicle seating – usability and posture

How can we help

We have extensive experience in managing different fleets, enabling us to review your current fleet policy from a risk management perspective.

We will make detailed recommendations where necessary and will work in partnership with you to agree the best framework for a revised policy.

We can also help communicate your new policy clearly and effectively to all of your employees.

We will help put in place a structured review to ensure your risk management policy remains up to date with changes in legislation, and becomes an ongoing part of your organisation's safety culture.
